Thieving Doctor Forgiven

VIOLA, Wis. (UPI) — Dr. Frank Wiley received patients as usual yesterday and talked of how he robbed their homes to satisfy his passion for antiques.

The patients and Dr. Wiley alike acted "like nothing has happened," the doctor said.

Dr. Wiley, 42, only physician in this community of 1,000 and the father of four children, is charged with breaking into the farm homes of 13 of his patients in order to get antiques.

He wanted the antiques to start a museum commemorating the history of Wisconsin's Waupaca county, the doctor said.

He was arrested last Thursday as he emerged from a farmhouse carrying a stack of dishes. Next day, he was arraigned on burglary charges, waived preliminary hearing and was released on $5,000 bond pending a court appearance, probably next fall.

"People have been so wonderful I feel like a 100-pound weight has been taken off my back," Dr. Wiley said. "Now I know I was definitely in the wrong—I want it to be known and I'm not trying to cover anything."

Although the doctor appeared confident the townspeople had forgiven him, a spokesman for a group of businessmen said he wasn't so sure.

"People are sorting out their emotions," the man said.

Locked Out

TORONTO (CP) — The locks on all Loblaw supermarkets throughout Canada are being changed to foil thieves who stole about 220 master keys from the company's head office here. Guards have been posted at all stores.

Alberta Supports Hot-Rod Scheme

EDMONTON (CP)—Highways Minister Gordon Taylor has told the Alberta legislature he has agreed to call a meeting of hot-rod car clubs to allow the custom car and hot-rod fans to organize on a province-wide basis.

Mr. Taylor praised hot-rod clubs and young drivers in general, saying the hot-rodders are "a tremendous asset toward safety on the road."

The clubs teach traffic safety, good driving habits and courtesy, the minister added, and discipline their own members.
